Bon Secours Richmond Community Hospital offers mental health and behavioral health services. The facility is a non-smoking facility offering quality and compassionate inpatient care, whether you need treatment for anxiety and depression or seek counseling for addiction or other mental health challenges. The behavioral health program consists of groups focused on a client returning to the community and utilizing the community resources. The goal is to assist each client admitted to maintain the maximum level of functioning possible. Confidentiality is a must for all patients and individual treatment is directed by the attending psychiatrist. Clinical features consist of a professional multi-disciplinary team that includes the attending psychiatrist, licensed clinical social workers, registered nurses, licensed practical nurses, behavioral health techs, and activity therapists.
