Ducks In A Row offers help for individuals to develop a timeline, make a plan and organize information so that in the event of disability or death, all wishes and information are accessible and easy to understand. Help with planning for end of life, including burial or cremation, memorial or funeral services are available and more. Call for information about presentations, workshops or counseling. Legal and financial help is not available.

Services are available in workshops and classes.

Mary Ann Stripling's many years of professional experience as both a teacher and a counselor have given her the practical skills needed for end-of-life planning, while personal experience has given her an understanding for the importance of leaving your Ducks in A Row.
