goodChoice, a collaborative project involving Goodwill Industries, Virginia Credit Union, and St. James's Episcopal Church, promotes financial education to help individuals identify and break the cycle of debt, allowing them to become more financially stable. The financial education program is open to all individuals seeking the necessary fundamental education to manage their money so they can better manage their lives.

Participants will be offered financial education classes and one-on-one coaching to help them gain financial skills and gain access to traditional banking services. Participants will learn the pitfalls of high-cost lending products such as payday and car title loans.
