Melwood's Vocational Support Services program provides work support to individuals of differing abilities and encourages them to transform their own lives. Specifically, the goal is helping persons of differing abilities (functional, psychological, developmental, cognitive, physical and emotional impairments or disabilities) experience personal development, career growth, community integration and improved financial capacity. Participants work throughout Maryland, District of Columbia and Virginia areas on various military bases, government buildings and grounds as well as commercial sites performing document conversion and destruction, custodial, fulfillment, administrative and landscaping jobs.
