Alzlive.com is a free, daily, digital lifestyle and news platform designed specifically for the unpaid family caregivers of Alzheimer's and dementia patients in the United States and Canada. Our vision is to provide the tools, information, and support - updated on a daily basis - so the caregiver may better perform the challenging task of looking after a cognitively impaired loved one, and thus increase their own health outcomes and effectiveness. We do this by providing editorial content that helps family caregivers not only cope, but provide better care to their Alzheimer's afflicted relatives. The editorial voice will always be one of support, understanding, and community. Its tone will be affirming, honest, practical, while anchored in reality with a sense of humor.
